

A photograph of a church service. In the foreground, a young boy in a white and gold vestment with a red cross on the back stands with his back to the camera. To his right, a priest in ornate white and gold vestments with a red cross is reading from a book at a wooden lectern. In the background, a large group of people, including many children, are seated in the pews. A table with a white cloth and lit candles is visible in the lower left. The church has a red carpet and decorative borders.
